CAKEzine is fed up with wedding! It's also a zine dedicated to making strange the familiar.

Enshrined in marriage are a host of inequalities, constraints and constructs.

CAKEzine is against descrimination guilded in tradition.

CAKEzine is against the toxic state-sponsored economic policies of the nuclear family.

CAKEzine is against the marital cash nexus.

CAKEzine is against the sex-gender industrial complex.

What we see effects what we imagine, so we aim to challenge the normal imagery of a 'white wedding' to be a more inclusive, equal, diverse and entertaining ritual.

Marriage doesn't mean what it has supposedly always meant anymore. That much is decided. What remains unclear is what marriage could be. CAKEzine is intended to explore, empower, and entertain its readers to imagine those alternatives.
