Other rights related to processing of personal data

The data are used for statistical purposes. Under the General Data Protection Regulation (EU 2016/679), the data subject has a right to access and rectify as well as to restrict or object to the processing of his or her personal data, and a right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority. When the Finnish data protection act enters into force, these rights may be restricted in order to enable the collection of statistical data (government proposal 9/2018).

Right of access to personal data

Data subjects have a right to know what personal data are being processed of them and what data concerning them have been stored. The university provides you with your information upon request without undue delay. The requested information or the additional information related to the request must be provided no later than one month after receiving the request. If the information request is complex and comprehensive, the deadline may be extended by two months.

Right to rectification of data

The data subject has a right to have any inaccurate or incomplete personal data concerning him or her rectified or completed without undue delay. In addition, the data subject has a right to demand that all personal data concerning him or her that is no longer necessary be erased.

Right to restrict processing

In certain situations, data subjects have the right to restrict the processing of their personal data until their data has been duly checked and rectified or completed.

Right to object

The data subject shall have the right to object, on grounds relating to his or her particular situation, at any time to processing of personal data concerning him or her which is based on the performance of a task carried out in the public interest or in the exercise of official authority or the legitimate interest of the university. In such cases, the university shall no longer process the personal data unless the university demonstrates compelling legitimate grounds for the processing.

You can exercise your rights by contacting the Aalto data protection officer (dpo@aalto.fi).

Right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority

You shall have the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority if you consider that the processing of personal data relating to you infringes the General Data Protection Regulation (EU) 2016/679. In addition, you have a right to use other administrative or judicial remedies.

You shall have the right to bring proceedings against the controller or the organisation processing your personal data before a court if you consider that the processing of your personal data infringes the General Data Protection Regulation.
