

Who's affected?

Every Aalto University author who is publishing scientific articles and conference publications. This includes PhD students and PostDocs.

Which version do I send?

You should send your final, peer-reviewed accepted manuscript (FAM). This is a version WITHOUT the official layout, or corrections made in copy-editing or in typesetting. Provide us the manuscript with the pictures and charts included.

How is it done?

Tell about the university policy to your coauthors in the start of the writing process. As soon as your peer reviewed manuscript has been accepted, send it to manuscripts@aalto.fi. You can also send the link to your accepted manuscript in arXiv and we will add it to ACRIS

Do I need to worry about publisher copyright?

No, open science and ACRIS team will make sure that the FAM in ACRIS will comply with the publishers requirements

What about third party copyright?

Articles may also contain copyrighted material belonging to a third party, such as illustrations or graphics. If the permission to use these materials applies only to printed editions, separate permission is required to use them for self-archiving purposes.

Do I need to send my manuscript if it is being published with paid open access?

You do not need to send the manuscript to us. We will deposit publications published with paid open access as a part of our publication importing service.
